

January 3, 1994

The giving spirit

By Doug Feiden, Alan Mirabella And Gerri Willis

The names of New York's top contributors to federal elections, parties and political action committees were rounded up recently in a report published by Washington-based political strategists Bradley S. O'Leary and Victor Kamber.

The report, a monthly political newsletter, was compiled in conjunction with Campaigns & Elections magazine and covers the 1991-92 election cycle.

Super donors include: Bernard L. Schwartz, chief executive, Loral Corp., $ 50,000; Maurice Templesman, chairman, Lazare Kaplan International Inc., $ 50,000; Arthur Ortenberg, a founder, Liz Claiborne Inc., $ 46,000; Robert E. Rubin, former co-chairman, Goldman, Sachs & Co., now chairman of the National Economic Council, $ 45,901; and Jeffrey C. Keil, president of Republic New York Corp., $ 44,000.